WAC Kiss

When WACs aboard the welcoming tug shouted their willingness to kiss returning veterans aboard the transport Howard A. Kelly as it entered Boston harbor today, S-Sgt. Robert Carpenter of Hamburg, Ark., just couldn't wait. He slid down a hawser from the ship and attempted to swim to the tug. Another tug picked him up and landed him right in the arms of the WACs. Here he collects from Pvt. Mary Delage of Southbridge, while other WACs (l. to r.), Pvt. Rose Stankewicz, Pvt. Irene Watts, PFC Betty Petrie and Pvt. Lee Sheldon cheer them on.

U.S. Plans Mass War Crime Trial

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

LONDON, June 22 (AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson announced today a United States plan to prosecute Germany's arch war criminals in one collective trial and expressed hope it might start "before the end of the summer."

Justice Jackson, chief United States prosecutor, emphasized at a press conference he could not speak for the three other major western powers, but said no objection to the proposal had been lodged by Britain, Russia or France.

The British foreign office announced representatives of the United States, Britain, France and Russia would open discussions in London next week to draw up a list of the major criminals and settle trial plans.

Jackson elaborated on information of the collective trial plan obtained earlier in the day from a responsible American source. The plan envisions trial by a military tribunal, with each of the four major powers represented by "one or two judges," Jackson said. It carries no provision for representation by smaller powers.

At the outset of the press conference, Jackson emphasized "no man will be given immunity because he has held a high military position if there is evidence he is a war criminal."

In the first exposition of trial plans, given newspapermen here, he said trials would start "just as soon as we have a reasonably complete case."

A British foreign office commentator said the purpose of the four-power discussion would be that of drafting a list of the major war criminals, and settling questions involving "procedure of the court which is to try them."

The American source reported U. S. authorities were ready, if necessary, to go ahead alone with the prosecution if no agreement is reached soon among the big powers.

But the United States possesses a potent argument for obtaining a quick agreement—it was custody of a great majority of the arch-criminals.

The United States delegation, it was said, was relying heavily on the Kellogg-Briand pact, outlawing aggressive war, to support mass conspiracy charges.

The American plan for a mass trial, unprecedented in history, would bring together as defendants under a blanket conspiracy charge those accused of being responsible for starting World War II, including government leaders, top Nazi military chiefs, German industrialists and diplomats and SS and Gestapo leaders.

No place has been designated as yet for the trial.

Sinatra Thrilled By Call on Pope

VATICAN CITY, June 22 (AP)—Pope Pius XII received Frank Sinatra today, who said he was asked "whether I am a tenor or a baritone."

"I was amazed the Pope had heard of me," Sinatra said. "I was speechless. One could hardly think of anything to say. I was mostly impressed by the humanity of the man. I have wanted to see the Vatican since I was a child. I am enthralled by all this grandeur. I am thrilled by the history that is behind the whole thing."

Phil Silvers, the writer, and singer Fay MacKenzie accompanied Sinatra to the audience.

Sinatra started a tour of Italy last night, singing to thousands of troops in the Rome rest center.

Letter to Gen. Patton From Dead Private X

PARIS, June 22 (AP)—The U. S. Army newspaper Stars and Stripes published today an imaginary letter from "one of the dead" who served under Gen. Patton's command, taking the general to task for telling children in a Sunday school class they would be the soldiers and nurses of the next war.

The article, written by an Army captain who signed only the initials J. C. B., begged Gen. Patton to "just sort of hold your tongue at least until after that San Francisco conference."

(Patton, in his address to the Sunday school children of the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour in San Gabriel, Cal., June 10, told them: "You children here, whether you like it or not, are the soldiers and nurses of the next war. There will be war again, in my opinion, because there have always been such things.")

The letter:

"Dear General Patton:

"I am one of 30,000 men who died under your command on our march across Europe. Last week you told a Sunday school class:

"'You children are the soldiers and nurses of the next war.'

"Another war—not a hundred years from now but right around the corner! I don't know what the other 29,999 boys did, but I turned over in my grave, general, and the dirt above me moved because it isn't packed hard yet.

"Please don't tell us that, general—not just now. And don't say it again to our families. It's too soon for them to understand. And don't say it to the world at a time when all the decent nations in it are working to build a peace of some kind.

"Couldn't you just sort of hold your tongue at least until after that San Francisco conference? A lot of people—smart people too—are pretty hopeful about the way things are going out there.

"On the night before you spoke to that Sunday school class you cried on the platform before thousands of people. You said:

"'It's no fun to say to men you love, "Go out and die."'

"We know that was no fun for you. It's no fun to die either. It's particularly no fun when the general you followed turns right around to your homefolks a few weeks later and tells them you died in vain.

"Yes, we died when you told us to die. We tried to do everything you asked of us because we thought of you as a great soldier. We still do. But may we now with all due respect ask one little favor in return?

"Just stay a soldier. Leave the peace up to those who are working their hearts out to make it stick. Leave them alone—for a little while anyway. And for God's sake stay out of my little brother's Sunday school class. He still thinks I died to make a better world for him.

B-29s Lash Jap Navy Arsenal

By LEIF ERICKSON

GUAM, June 22 (AP)—Four hundred fifty B-29s today attacked Japan's last large naval arsenal and five big aircraft factories with 3000 tons of demolition bombs in a precision raid made visually from medium altitude in clear weather.

Seven other small industrial targets were fire-raided Monday and Wednesday.

Japan's two largest arsenals, Osaka and Hiro, previously were virtually destroyed. The Kure plant, blasted today, manufactured guns up to 16 inches, projectiles, fuses, propellants and torpedoes. It covered approximately 11,000,000 square feet.

The other five targets were the Mitsubishi and Kawasaki aircraft plants at Kagamigahara, 20 miles north of Nagoya; Kawanishi aircraft plant at Himeji and the Kawasaki aircraft plant at Akashi, both in the Kobe area, and the Mitsubishi-Mishima aircraft factory at Tamashima, 90 miles west of Kobe.

B-29s already have destroyed or damaged 112 square miles of Jap urban industrial areas, 21st Bomber Command headquarters announced. Recent B-29 attacks on seven smaller industrial cities—all made with incendiary bombs earlier this week—damaged more than nine square miles of war factory areas.

Our Okinawa Losses Set All-Time Record

By Associated Press

The Mikado may find some consolation today in knowing 90,401 of his subjects, now dead, extracted a higher price in American lives for Okinawa than for any other Pacific island.

U. S. Tenth Army forces lost 6990 killed and 29,598 wounded—exceeding Jap losses on any American-captured island outside the Southwest Pacific.

In the Southwest Pacific, Australians leap frogged 50 miles down the West Borneo coast in an unopposed landing between Seria and Miri oil fields.

A coup by American-led Filipino guerrillas split 30,000 Jap troops in the northern Philippine Cagayan valley.

Five Chinese columns are pressing on Liuchow and one has penetrated to the south railroad station while others are attacking the former American air base on the southern outskirts which was abandoned seven months ago, the Chinese high command announced.

Japanese remaining on Okinawa were surrendering in droves in response to pleas from loudspeakers on American-Japanese interpelators.

Adm. Nimitz reported "numerous" drownings Thursday and 1700 surrenders bringing the campaign's total of prisoners to 4000—a record.

In the northern Philippines, Col. Russell W. Volckmann who has led guerrillas in reconquest of northwestern Luzon, directed the seizure of Tuguegarao and its excellent airfield.

Rough seas held up Australian ninth division forces in their latest Borneo invasion at Lutong.

Premier Suzuki, preparing his cabinet for "impending invasion," said that newly acquired powers to rule by imperial decree would enable the government to move quickly in meeting any new threat.

PRAGUE, June 22 (AP)—President Benes today ordered confiscation of all farms and corporations in Czechoslovakia belonging to Germans, Hungarians and "traitors and Nazi collaborationists of any nationality."

Four-Year Plan Set by Russia

Patton in Reply Warns U. S. Must Be Ready for 3d War

HAMILTON, June 22 (AP)—Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., asserted today he thought it was "stupid to run the risk of not being prepared for another war."

The commander of the Third Army, commenting on an imaginary letter from "one of the dead" in Stars and Stripes, Army newspaper, which criticized him for telling children of a Sunday school class they would be the soldiers and nurses of the next war, declared:

"Having been through two world wars and having experienced the anguish of commanding men who were wounded or killed due to lack of training, I think it is stupid to run the risk of not being adequately prepared for another war because you do not stop fires by abolishing the fire department.

"And you do not stop wars by being unprepared for them. The best way to maintain peace which naturally I want more than anyone else, having seen how bad war is, is to be ready for war.

"I don't want people to get the idea that I'm a warmonger. I think it's terribly foolish not to be prepared, and I think young people who may have to carry on in another war should know that many men were wounded or killed due to lack of preparedness in this war."

TRUCKLOAD OF BOOTLEG SLAUGHTERED BEEF SEIZED BY STATE TROOPERS
Illegally Killed Beef Was Processed Under Intolerably Filthy Conditions

State Cops Seize More Bootleg Meat, Butchers

Striking swiftly and unexpectedly in their mounting drive against hideaway slaughtering plants, State Police have trapped another group of illegal butchers and seized a quantity of bootleg slaughtered meat destined for black market channels.

The latest catch was made by troopers of the Concord barracks and speedy court action faces the bootleg slaughterers who were found to be killing cattle with the most primitive equipment and under conditions of indescribable filth.

No provision whatsoever had been made by the illicit butchers for refrigeration of the slaughtered meat, nor for observing any of the first principles of sanitation to protect the health of the ultimate consumer of their product.

Their haste to kill the animals and get rid of the evidence of their guilt also precludes any care being taken to handle the slaughtering and disposal of the meat under minimum conditions of sanitation.

The money is rolling in too fast and too easy for them to worry about the possibility of or the responsibility for putting infected or contaminated meat into the hands of operators of wholesale

House OK's OPA For Full Year

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—The House today defeated a Republican-sponsored effort to hold OPA's new lease on life to six months instead of one year. The vote was 177 to 126.

The vote for a full year's extension came after Speaker Rayburn walked into the House well and appealed to the membership not to destroy OPA. Such action, he said, would bring inflation "in which many people won't have anything to eat or wear."

Just Like Home

SALT LAKE CITY, June 22 (AP)—Pvt. John Rusetos of Chicago, after nearly a year overseas, knew how he was going to spend his 20-day furlough.

He went straight from the Army air base at Wendover, Utah, where he is stationed, to the USO in Salt Lake City. There he sat around with his shoes untied "just as if I were home."

GI Swims for Kisses

Dives Off Transport to Reach WACs

The siren songs of welcoming WACs were too much for S-Sgt. Robert Carpenter of Hamburg, Ark., today as the SS Howard A. Kelly, bearing 356 European war veterans, moved through the harbor toward Commonwealth Pier.

Landing was only a matter of minutes, but the shouts of the WACs from a welcoming tug to "come on over" were taken literally by the sergeant.

Sliding down a hawser from the transport to a tug which was nudging the vessel toward the pier, Sgt. Carpenter shucked off his shoes, leaped into the harbor and set his course for the WAC-laden tug.

But outlander Carpenter was not familiar with the devious currents of Boston harbor and soon found himself being carried away from the welcoming tug.

Another tug crawled toward him and threw out a lifebuoy, which he grasped and was pulled aboard.

On his insistence, he was taken to the welcoming tug instead of the transport and was given a joyous and osculatory welcome by the WACs.

Turning from a smother of kisses, he shouted over the public address system to his fellow veterans:

"This is wonderful, boys! You don't know what you're missing!"

Most of the WACs, because of fog and drizzle, were wearing raincoats and agreed it was a good thing because the bear hugs of Sgt. Carpenter were slightly moist after his dip in the harbor.

Among the well-kissed WACs was Pvt. Mary DeLage of Southbridge, to whom the sergeant promised a Nazi battle flag when he retrieved his luggage from the transport.

Included among returning veterans were 14 New England residents, 10 from Massachusetts.

One, T5 Robert D. Mead of Nesmith st., Lowell, could boast of plenty of overseas service, since he served 18 months in Europe in World War I and 14 months in the present conflict. His tunic bristled with campaign ribbons, including the Purple Heart, Victory Medal with Four Stars, the German Occupation Ribbon for World War I, the Infantry Combat Badge and a four-starred European Campaign Ribbon for World War II.

He's planning to get out, figur-

OPA—The Black Market—and YOU

Meat Rules Hit by N. E. Governors

By DONALD MacPHAIL
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 22—Blasting recently imposed OPA restrictions on slaughtering of meat for consumption within their states, New England's governors asserted black markets were thriving and must be eliminated "before they eliminate us."

The statements of the six chief executives were made just before they started a closed conference of the governors of 13 northeastern states, called at the Hotel Roosevelt by Gov. Dewey of New York and Gov. Baldwin of Connecticut.

After listening to the statements of the visiting governors, Gov. Dewey asserted:

"It is obvious that it is the lower income group which is suffering most in this shortage situation. Because they are in the greatest number, they must be the first in our consideration.

"It is obvious there must be a readjustment in the present distribution and price figures. If not, the whole OPA system will collapse."

While the chief complaints of all the governors present were devoted to meat, they said acute shortages in poultry, eggs and other foodstuffs also must be considered.

"Supplies of meat and poultry in Connecticut have been going down at an alarming rate for the past year," Gov. Baldwin said. "New England states are at the end of the transportation line and usually get the last of everything.

"The people of Connecticut and adjoining states have been very patient in the face of shortages and brazen black market operations but it is a question of how long they can remain patient."

Another who warned of growing unrest among consumers was Gov. Dale, of New Hampshire.

"The temper of the people is becoming brittle," he said. "New Hampshire is getting only 20 per cent of its meat needs and black markets are thriving. The new slaughtering restrictions fail to take into consideration the influx of vacationists to New Hampshire

Wives Back Plan To Go Overseas

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—More than 200 persons have written to Rep. Margaret Smith (R.) of Maine, favoring her suggestion wives be permitted to join their soldier-husbands in Europe.

The letters came from all parts of the United States and from G. I.'s overseas.

John W. Martyn, administrative assistant to Secretary Stimson, said the War Department "will certainly relax the present restrictions" prohibiting civilians from traveling to Europe "when conditions permit."

Girl, 6, Dies in Refrigerator; Hint Foul Play

SPRINGFIELD, June 22 (AP)—Six-year-old Hazel Laurie was found dead in a refrigerator on the porch of her home today and a medical examiner said an autopsy showed "a suspicion" she had been criminally assaulted.

The child was found after an all-night search by her family and neighbors.

Earlier, Sgt. Harold Carroll and Detective William G. Sears said the child had apparently hidden in the refrigerator at the height of yesterday's thunderstorm and had become trapped.

Mrs. Mary Gilberti, with whom the child's mother, Mrs. Martha Laurie, shared the two-family dwelling, told police she had repeatedly warned children not to enter the refrigerator. Her own child had been imprisoned in it two days ago.

Gale Moving North Increases

MIAMI, Fla., June 22 (AP)—A tropical storm moving north across the Gulf of Mexico was reported showing indications of increasing in intensity today.

A Miami weather bureau advisory said:

"The tropical storm central near latitude 25 degrees north and longitude 86 degrees west or about 280 miles west of Key West is moving northward at 10 to 12 m. p. h.

"Highest winds about 50 m. p. h. near and 50 miles to east and north of center."

Spring Pig Crop 6 Million Short

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today the 1945 spring pig crop totaled about 51,687,000 head.

This was far short of the government's goal of 57,500,000 head.

The spring pig crop will move to market for slaughter next fall and winter.

The department said the combined spring and fall pig crops of 1945 were expected to be only a little larger than last year's small wartime crop.

Parley Delegates Given Draft of World Charter

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22 (AP)—The United Nations charter written at San Francisco differs in many ways from the draft of a security league drawn up by the big powers at Dumbarton Oaks in Washington last fall. The Dumbarton Oaks plan formed the basis for the document drafted here. Perhaps the greatest difference is in the increased power of the proposed general assembly of all member nations. This is being hailed by small nations as a great victory for themselves.

Text of the final draft of the charter has been distributed to each delegation. Secretary of State Stettinius described it as subject to approval by the final session of the conference. Until that approval is given, he said, it is subject to change.

Here are main provisions of the charter as now drafted:

PURPOSES—The United Nations organization's chief purpose is to maintain peace and security by peaceful means or force. Also it will seek to develop friendly relations among nations, promote economic and social co-operation and afford machinery for nations constantly to talk over their international problems.

It should do these things, the charter says, in accord with justice and human rights.

PRINCIPLES — All member states (50 nations at San Francisco) pledge themselves to use force only in accordance with the purposes of the organization and not to aid any nation against which the league takes action.

They bind themselves also to respect territorial integrity and political independence of each other.

MEMBERSHIP—It is to be open to all peace-loving states.

PRINCIPAL ORGANS—These are (1) general assembly, (2) security council, (3) court, (4) economic and social council, (5) trusteeship council, (6) secretariat.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY—This consists of all member nations. The Oaks plan saw it only as a restricted debating society. The charter allows it to debate anything within the scope of the charter, rallying world public opinion, and to make recommendations to the security council or to member nations on virtually any international situatoin. It will receive security council reports.

Such broad grants of authority were a victory for small nations.

SECURITY COUNCIL.—It is given 11 members of which five must be the United States, Britain, Russia, France and China. The assembly elects the other six.

The council cannot refuse any state the right to appeal a dispute to it. None of the big powers can prevent discussion of the dispute. First, peaceful means, then force may be employed to settle it, but the council has to vote any action by a majority of seven, including all the Big-Five.

Thus any one of the Big Five (this is the long-argued veto power) can block an action except on peaceful settlement when it is party to a dispute; then it cannot vote at all.

For using force the council's military command is a "military staff committee" of the Big Five chiefs of staff.

INTERNATIONAL COURT OF JUSTICE—The charter provides for creation of the court, but its detailed plan of organization is a separate document.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR MAINTENANCE OF INTERNATIONAL PEACE AND SECURITY, INCLUDING PREVENTION AND SUPPRESSION OF AGGRESSION—Any state may appeal to the council and it may look into any situation on its own. After discussion, the council may investigate, use conciliation, arbitration or the like or otherwise try to settle a situation.

It may recommend terms of a settlement—something the Oaks Plan did not allow—peacefully and in accordance with justice and international law. Failing peaceful settlement, it may use economic, political or military force to prevent a breach or threat of the peace or to suppress an aggression once it occurs.

The members of the United Nations must make special agreements telling what forces each can supply on council call.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL CO-OPERATION—The economic and social council of 18 members elected by the assembly has objectives at once more numerous and specific than the Oaks Plan set forth, including promotion of such things as full employment, education and health.

SECRETARIAT—This is the working staff of the organization, headed by a secretary-general.

AMENDMENTS — Two-thirds of the membership including all the big powers would have to agree to all amendment before they could become effective.

TRANSITIONAL ARRANGEMENTS—Until the council is a going concern, backed by force responsibility for joint maintenance of peace and security falls upon the United States, Russia, Britain and China, which signed a pact to that effect at Moscow in 1943. The security council can take over as soon as it is able to do so.

TRUSTEESHIPS—This covers several chapters not in the Oaks Plan at all. At the head of the system would be a council composed of all countries administering trusteeships plus an equal number of non-administering countries which would have to include Russia and China.

THERE WOULD BE TWO KINDS OF TRUSTEESHIPS — First, strategic, consisting of islands or areas which the great powers developed as military bases (U. S.-held Pacific islands for instance) which would be under exclusive control of the administering power; and, second, general trusteeships, which would be administered by a single power but subject to periodic inspection by agents of the United Nations.

Overrules Lower Court in Rent Suit

In upholding the Rent Control Act and its provisions, the Massachusetts Supreme Court today reversed a decision by Municipal Judge Riley and ordered trial in his court of a damage suit for alleged rent-boosting.

The suit, which Judge Riley dismissed for lack of jurisdiction, was brought by Maurice Schaffer, Akron st., South End, against his landlord, Goldie Leimberg, for allegedly raising the rent $5 a month.

Truman Pays Up

OLYMPIA, Wash., June 22 (AP)—President Truman paid Gov. Mon C. Wallgren of Washington $10 when he arrived. It wasn't board money though.

"When this visit was arranged," Sen. Magnuson (D.) of Washington, told reporters, "Mon bet $10 with the President his governor's mansion quarters would be as nice as those assigned White House guests.

"Well, the President took one look and paid off."

Father of 6 Held In Wife Killing

Charged with murder in the fatal stabbing of his wife, Melina, 33, during a family squabble, Angelo DiBenedetto, 52, father of six children, was ordered held without bail today in municipal court.

Earlier in the day, while being questioned in the police lineup, DiBenedetto, according to Lt. James V. Crowley, declared.

"I'm sorry. I didn't mean to do it."

Crowley said Mrs. DiBenedetto suffered 20 knife wounds.

He was arrested by Lt. Chester A. Henchey of headquarters and police of the Warren ave. station, in Washington st., South End, where the stabbing occurred. He resisted arrest but was quickly subdued, police said.

He allegedly told police where to look for the knife he had discarded after the slashing, and it was found near the scene of the quarrel.

Police said he also disclosed under questioning that the victim was his second wife, and that he had six children by his first wife.

Gen. Ike Postwar 'Casualty', As Home Town Hails Him

ABILENE, Kas., June 22 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who, unscathed, directed millions through three years of war, turned up a casualty on his homecoming day. The general limped noticeably as the result of a fall last night at the Topeka railroad platform, where he got off his train to greet a group of Purple Heart soldiers. The train started without him. He ran for it, fell and sprained his leg rather severely.

Eisenhower slept late aboard the private car that brought him from Kansas City last night. He arose just before 9 a. m. for the big parade in his home town at 10 a. m.

The Allied comander rode at the head of the parade, preceded only by two horsemen, the color guard, and the Abilene Cowboy Band. When his car reached the Lamer hotel the general left it and mounted to a reviewing stand.

Then for nearly two hours Abilene, Dickinson county, and all of central Kansas paid him honor.

Directly behind his car came marching veterans of World War II and then a float carrying Purple Heart veterans of this war. They were followed by the Gold Star Mothers, American War Dads, American Legion and Legion auxiliary.

Ike, wreathed in smiles and saluting stiffly every flag that passed, got his biggest thrill from a float carrying the football team of 1909 on which he played. Ten former Abilene high school students who played with Ike on that team were on the float, with his old position at left tackle left vacant. Also on the float was his old high school coach Orrin Snider, now a farmer living near Abilene.

"Hi, boys," Eisenhower yelled from cupped hands as this float passed.

Preceding it were two of Ike's old school teachers here when he was a child, he yelled them a greeting, too.

ESTELLE MYERS RUBIN

Marriage Threatened by Uncle

Beautician Sues Uncle-in-Law

Her husband's uncle informed her he would break up their marriage if it was the last thing he did, Mrs. Estelle Myers Rubin, attractive beautician, of Brookledge st., Roxbury, testified in Suffolk Superior Court today in her $100,000 suit against Samuel Rubin of South Boston.

She charges Rubin, the uncle, with alienation of affections and with being responsible for the divorce she obtained in Oct., 1942, from Thomas Rubin on grounds of cruelty.

"He was opposed to our marriage from the beginning," she testified before Judge David Dillon and a jury. "He told my husband he would never be a success with the handicap of a wife like me. He called me fat, dopey and lazy in front of my husband."

The case was continued until Monday.

LONDON, June 22 (INS)—A Yugoslav radio report said today Jura Jourovic, described as a close associate of Gen. Draja Mikhailovitch and a "kind of Chetnik Goebbels," has been captured by Yugoslav authorities.

GOP Rips Tobin Dog Race Cuts

Attacking the slash in dog racing dates as "the most ridiculous thing a governor ever did," several Republican legislators today charged Gov. Tobin's action was a "subversive" attempt to wipe out racing in Massachusetts.

The representatives also accused the racing commission with weakness and inadequate performance of their duties.

The bitter assault on the Governor and the commmission came during a joint ways and means committee hearing on a proposal to permit Tobin to appoint members to a board to investigate racing.

Rep. Louis Lobel of Allston made the charge the Governor sought to abolish racing in answer to a question by Rep. John E. Powers of Boston.

"The Governor could abolish racing directly under his wartime emergency powers, but he was trying to do it subversively," Lobel declared.

"I can't see how a fellow can kid the Massachusetts Legislature with ridiculous messages after he cuts dog racing and that was the most ridiculous thing a Governor ever did."

Rep. Edward R. Butterworth of Nahant said he talked with a racing commissioner about the cut in dates and was told "we couldn't do a thing, our hands were tied."

Under questioning by committee members, Butterworth refused to identify the commissioner.

Asked by Powers if he thought a public official should be removed from office if he is doing his job inadequately, Butterworth replied:

"I don't think the commissioners are doing their job adequately. There is either weakness on their part or too much strength on the part of the Governor."

Lobel defended the right of race track owners to show an interest in state affairs.

"They have a right to be interested," he declared. "They conduct enterprises that pay taxes and have a right a right to know where the money goes."

Rep. Henry L. Shattuck of Boston, urging approval of the probe of racing with Gov. Tobin appointing members to the committee, declared:

"I think the financial accounts of some of these organizations are worthy of investigation. I have looked at the Revere Racing Ass'n statement of expeditures and it was lousy, positively lousy."

He said the committee order should not be passed, however, until the Senate acts on his measure to increase taxes on horse and dog racing.

Sen. Joseph L. Murphy of Boston, Democratic floor leader, called the Senate's delay "a low type of politics."

Richard Mitton Dies at 60

Stricken with a heart attack, Richard Mitton, 60, of Little's Point, Swampscott, retired president of the Jordan Marsh Co., died today as he was being taken to Lynn Hospital.

He had retired as head of the store in 1937 because of poor health, but remained as a director.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Leonie M. Mitton; two brothers, George W. Mitton, also a retired president of the firm, and Arthur G. Mitton, Boston attorney, and one sister, Mrs. George N. Gardiner of Hewitt, N. Y.

Born in Cambridge, the son of Edward J. and Sarah A. G. Mitton, he was educated at the Stone School and at Harvard before entering the service of the Jordan store.

In another feature of the Seventh War Loan drive in Greater Boston, Lt. Mildred M. Doane, winner of the Army Air Medal for evacuation of wounded in the South Pacific, and T-Sgt. Callen F. Film Star Arrives Here for Garden Show

Film Stars Here For Bataan Show

Among famous Hollywood stars scheduled to arrive in Boston this afternoon to take part in the all-star "Back to Bataan" salute Sunday at the Boston Garden, will be John Wayne, who plays a prominent role in the screen production; Ellen Drew, star of "China Sky"; Jesse L. Lasky, RKO production ace; Anthony Quinn and Ducky Louis.

Their arrival was preceded by that of Fely Franquelli, star of "Back to Bataan," who was given a warm welcome by a group of admiring fans.

Curtain time in the benefit arranged by the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser has been advanced to 8 p. m. because of the extraordinary array of talent to be seen and heard.

From now until they are all gone, tickets may be purchased at any of three places—the Boston Garden box office, daily from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m.; the Wm. Filene's Sons Co. booth, on the street floor balcony during store hours; and the Keith Memorial Theater booth, Washington st. lobby, between 11 a. m. and 6 p. m., with Betty Bradford of Brookline, singer with Greater Boston bands, presiding. Seats are priced at $1.20, $2.40 and $3.60.

Remember that this prodigious night of entertainment has been arranged in two-fold purpose—to raise funds toward a downtown center for servicemen's wives and mothers, and as a salute to "Back to Bataan," the RKO film epic which has its world premiere the following day, next Monday, at the Keith Memorial.

More additions have been made to the already unmatched program, which will have Eddie Cantor as master of ceremonies; Benny Goodman, "King of Swing," as a brilliant highlight; six movie luminaries representing glamorous Hollywood, practically three complete night club shows, a couple of radio shows and a stage show.

One newcomer is Monica Lewis, newest find of Eddie Cantor, who will fill the place of Nora Martin of the Cantor radio show. Miss Martin is ill and has been ordered to rest by her physician. And the youngest star on the brilliant bill will be Richard Korbel, famed as a concert pianist at the age of 11.

Likewise a new addition is John Kiley, the WMEX organist, who will provide music before 8 o'clock, when the big show is opened with singing of the national anthem by Marion Mulhall, known to war veterans in all New England hospitals as the "Boston Thrush," and a favorite of patrons at the Music Box and Jimmie O'Keefe's Grill.

Throughout the evening you will see and hear Eddie Cantor and his radio troupe, including Leonard Sues, one of the nation's best trumpet players; Fred Martel, vocalist; Bea Walker, song stylist, and Monica Lewis, the latest Cantor discovery, as well as the following personalities:

Benny Goodman, his 24-piece band and his sextet, featuring Red Norvo, his former drummer; Dorothy Keller, comedy dancing star of the Broadway hit, "Follow the Girls," but now with Goodman, and Tim Herbert, comedy and dance star, also appearing with Goodman at the RKO-Boston.

From the New Bradford roof: Jackie Miles, one-man show and the season's laugh king.

From the Latin quarter: Comical Chaz Chase, the voice of Paddy Cliff, the 14 Don Arden Girls, Tony Bruno and his celebrated 25-piece band.

From Club Mayfair: Johnny Howard, Hollywood's favorite funster; the Whitney Sisters, entrancing dance team; the Crosby Sisters, comedians of song; the Six Dancing Mayfairettes.

From the Yankee Network: Ray Dorey, Jean Merrill, Ted Cole, and the Gallagher Sisters, noted singers.

Five hundred wearers of the Purple Heart, awarded for wounds received in action.

Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, resident Philippines commissioner to the U. S. and member of Gen. MacArthur's staff, the man responsible for Boston, as the Cradle of American Liberty, having the world premiere of "Back to Bataan," the story of his own people's similar fight for liberty.

A dozen of the Japanese captives rescued by Yank Rangers and Filipino guerillas from Cabanatuan Prison after MacArthur's return.

Remember the night, next Sunday; and the place, Boston Garden; and the time, 8 o'clock sharp. It's the time, the place and the show you just can't afford to miss.

Buy Tickets Here

Here are the locations where you may still buy tickets for Sunday night's big benefit show at Boston Garden:

Boston Garden box office, from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Wm. Filene's Sons Co. booth, first floor balcony, during store hours.

Keith Memorial Theater booth, Washington st. lobby, between 11 a. m. and 6 p. m.

Seats at all three places are at the same popular prices: $1.20, $2.40 and $3.60.

95th Infantry Heads for Home; 2d, 5th in July

PARIS, June 22 (AP)—The U. S. 95th Infantry Division was ordered to embark today at Le Havre for shipment home as the Second and Fifth Infantry Divisions arrived at assembly area command camps near Reims for redeployment to the United States.

The Second and Fifth Divisions will be processed for July shipment, along with the 44th and 87th infantry and 13th Armored Divisions. All of them, including the 95th, are scheduled for Pacific duty after furloughs and re-forming in the United States.

Other units already at redeployment camps include the 209th, 541st, 292d and 577th field artillery battalions. The 118th evacuation hospital is already on its way to the United States.

Of the 11 divisions announced as returning to the United States, here is how the others stand:

86th Infantry—Now in the United States.

97th Infantry—On the high seas headed for home;

104th Infantry—In final phase of staging and due to embark on or about June 26.

Eighth Infantry—Due to embark at Le Havre June 27 and 28;

Fourth Infantry—Moving to Le Havre for early embarkation.

7 U. S. Divisions Shifted in Germany

WEISBADEN, Germany, June 22 (AP)—American and Russian commanders have agreed upon the evacuation of seven U. S. divisions from a northern bulge in Soviet occupation territory, it was announced officially today at this 12th Army Group headquarters.

One of the divisions is the Sixth Armored, which will be returned to the United States in the late summer either to be demobilized or held in strategic reserve. The 30th Infantry is awaiting redeployment. The other five divisions will be deployed through the American occupation zone.

The American withdrawal is expected to require nine days. Under the agreement, the withdrawal will be in three phases with the Americans marking time on successive demarkation lines until the Soviets consolidate the newly-occupied territory. The announcement said the withdrawal had been arranged so that no contact will be made by the American and Russian forces.

Circus Tragedy

Reno Makes Saddle Halsey May Use on Hirohito's Nag

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Adm. William F. Halsey, Jr., will get a hand-made, silver mounted de luxe saddle for his proposed ride into Tokyo on Emperor Hirohito's white horse.

Work started on it today at Reno, Nev., the Treasury Dept. announced.

The Reno Chamber of Commerce, which will provide the saddle, has asked the Treasury to find out the admiral's measurements. The Reno businessmen's group had promised the war finance committee of Washoe county, Nevada, to provide the gift for Halsey if Washoe county went over the top in the 7th War Loan drive.

Months ago Halsey saw a picture of Emperor Hirohito on a handsome white horse. He said he wanted to ride that horse into Tokyo and appealed to B-29 bombardiers to try not to hit the imperial stables.

The plan to send him a cowboy-model saddle grew out of these powerful reasons:

1—The Navy does not issue saddles to its admirals.

2—Hirohito's saddle would be much too small for "Bull" Halsey.

Social Disease Rate Up 300 P.C. in Army

LONDON, June 22 (AP)—The Army newspaper, Stars and Stripes, said in a Paris dispatch yesterday the veneral disease rate among U. S. Army ground forces in the European theater had increased more than 300 per cent between early April and the week ended May 25.

The rate among Allied troops since V-E Day has increased by about 50 per cent, the dispatch said, and in Germany alone, where non-fraternization has been ruled, reported cases increased from 77 during the week ended April 30 to 957 during the week ended May 25.

Tax Cuts Uncertain, N. E. Council Is Told

Some of the most difficult tax problems in our history must be faced in the postwar period, according to Roy Blough, assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury, who spoke today at the 79th quarterly meeting of the New England Council at Hotel Statler.

"No one can tell at this time how much tax reduction rightfully can be expected," Blough said. "But it is safe to say its magnitude will be disappointing to many of our tax optimists.

"There are many imponderables in forecasting both expenditures and revenues. How large must the armed forces be?

"What kind of foreign trade relations will we have? What will be congressional policy regarding aids to agriculture and aids to the unemployed? What will be the policy be towards veterans?

"These things have to be answered before anything like an accurate forecast of postwar expenditures can be made."

The work which needs to be done within New England is more pressing than ever before in the region's history, Frederick S. Blackkall, Jr., president of the council, declared.

He continued: "But New England is far from moribund. You and I have the will and we can rekindle it in others."

Bad Weather Delays Shangri-La Rescue

HOLLANDIA, New Guinea, June 20 (Delayed) (AP)—Bad weather blanketed New Guinea today and it appeared an attempt to rescue three survivors of an Army plane crash from the hidden valley of "Shangri-La" must wait until the week-end.

Low ceiling grounded gliders and forced postponement of test runs. Authorities insisted on thorough rehearsals before the attempt is made.

Queen Elizabeth Sails With 15,000 GIs

"SATISFACTION GUARANTEED OR YOUR MONEY BACK"

Reunion Nears for Yank, Australian Wife, Twins

SPOKANE, Wash., June 22 (AP)—S-Sgt. Paul R. Seymour of Buffalo, N. Y., opened a newspaper today at Fort George Wright to see what was happening in the world—particularly in Australia, where his wife and five-months old twin daughters were living.

He looked again at an Associated Press wirephoto. There was a picture of his Ireland-born wife, Alma, and the twins, Sylvia and Sharon. They had arrived in San Francisco and were on their way to Buffalo.

"I knew they were coming," Seymour told post officers, "but I didn't know it would be so soon."

Capt. Hugh Crawford, military assignment officer, hastily rearranged a scheduled transfer for Seymour to southern California. Officials contacted the wife and twins, and plans were changed to permit them to go to Long Beach, Cal., to await Seymour's arrival.

It will be Seymour's first meeting, he said, with the twins, born in Australia after he had completed 33 months overseas' service and returned to the United States.

Bees May Sting Him Huge Fine

JOLIET, Ill., June 22 (AP)—Helge Johnson was busier than a whole swarm of bees trying to avoid the sting of a fine of $12,000,000 to $120,000,000.

In an apparance before Justice of the Peace Anthony MacKay, Johnson learned that his possession of some 400,000 bees in hives made him subject to prosecution under a city ordinance passed July 25, 1939, prohibiting ownership within the city of domestic animals, fowls or bees to run or fly loose within Joliet city limits.

The ordinance permits fines of one to 10 dollars for each day each animal, fowl or bee is loose. Johnson was cited May 26.

New Vet Hospital Outbreak Charged

WASHINGTON, June 22 (INS)—Rep. Kearney (R.) of New York today reported a new outbreak of violence at the Northport, N. Y., Veterans' Hospital adn said the Veterans' Administration had promised an investigation.

"It seems to me that Col. Louis Verdel, manager of the facility, has completely lost control of the institution," Kearney declared in making public a letter from the mother of a Northport patient, who witnessed the incident June 17.

Kearney was responsible for a House veterans' committee probe which uncovered the fact 15 soldier attendants had been court-martialed and seven civilians discharged for brutality to veterans at the neuropsychiatric hospital.

He asked the name of his corresponet be withheld, but permitted the use of these excerpts from her letter:

"We were sitting on the inside visiting room, directly by the door, and by the window facing, and viewing the outside visiting room, where most of the patients and visitors were sitting," the letter related.

"A violent patient picked up a chair and hit a visitor with an attempt to kill him. A free-for-all fight broke out amongst the patients. There wasn't an attendant around, and after the commotion started an attendant came running to help master the situation.

"What was evident was the shortage of attendants, making the situation precarious. We fear for our son's safety, and all the patients and visitors are endangered."

Kennedy Asks GIs Supervise Vets Aid

Special to the Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, June 22—Joseph P. Kennedy, former Ambassador to Great Britain, proposes that a crusade be made "for immediate appointment of returning soldiers currently being discharged to dominating positions" on every government bureau or committee administering veterans' affairs.

"That's one form of pressure politics the American people will understand and approve — soldiers' and to be administered by soldiers," he said.

Kennedy spoke at a military pageant at the Waldorf-Astoria last night at which he and Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, were awarded the National Commanders' Citation of the Catholic War Veterans for service to the nation.

Kennedy also was appointed honorary chairman of the military pageant.

In accepting the post, he declared:

"It is refreshing to hear a voice bid us think of the returning veterans."

He praised the GI Bill of Rights, but added:

"It will be of little use for government appropriations to exceed an estimated six billion dollars for the care and aid of veterans if, first, that aid be unfairly administered, and, second, if the individual does not avail himself of what is offered."

EL AUDIT BILL FAVORED

State Auditor Thomas J. Buckley would be authorized to audit the books of the Boston Elevated Railway under the terms of a bill reported favorably by the House Ways and Means committee yesterday.

Full Tuition Fee Urged for Vets

WASHINGTON, June 22—Payment by the Veterans Administration of full tuition fees up to $500 for veterans taking specialized short courses under educational provisions of the G. I. Bill of Rights, was urged today by both the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The two organizations also advocated that correspondence schools be included among schools entitled to Veterans Administration payments for services to veterans.

Crush Germany, Baruch Advises

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN

WASHINGTON, June 22 (INS)—Bernard M. Baruch, adviser of presidents, today proposed a 14-point program for control of Germany designed to keep that nation from attempting a "third try" at world conquest.

Baruch made his statement as the first witness before a Senate military committee investigation into the economic base for German aggression.

He declared this time Germany's war-making potential must be eliminated. He advocated dispersal of German plants and factories, destruction of heavy industries, Dismemberment of the Junkers estate, strict control of imports and exports, and "rooting out" of her business organization assets throughout the world.

At the same time, Baruch set forth a plan for the "streamlining" of the United States government to unify all of the many deep problems and policies which it will be called upon to formulate in the very near future.

Susan Peters Walking Again

HOLLYWOOD, June 22 (AP)—Six months ago doctors said beautiful Susan Peters couldn't live. Today, though paralyzed from the waist down, she is taking her first faltering steps.

The actress accidentally shot herself last New Year's Day while on a hunting trip near San Diego. For weeks she lay near death, then one night she called for her husband, actor Richard Quine, now of the Coast Guard. She whispered to him, "I just wanted you to know that I'm not going to die."

"I took three steps in my braces yesterday," she said proudly. "And it's only been a week since I had them on for the first time! I ought to be walking pretty well in three months."

Will she ever act again?

"Why, of course," she said. "I'd like to do some radio work for a while. Then I'll go back to the movies."

Susan said she would also like to tour military hospitals to show boys in similar condition how to walk.

Food

or retail black markets in meat.

Presumably this does concern the bureaucrats who have been attempting to regulate the distribution of meat and other foodstuffs.

But they have actually swung wide the door for this type of bootlegging by their recent order which restricted legitimate slaughterers in non-federally inspected plants during May and June to killing only a percentage of the amount of cattle, calves and hogs slaughtered during the same months of 1944.

This order deprives the civilian market in the Boston area of a large supply of meat and the black market is willing and ready to fill the gap with supplies slaughtered illicitly and under filthy conditions.

The latest bootleg slaughterers to fall in the State police bag operated in the usual fashion.

Cattle, either stolen or obtained by connivance with their owners, were transported in a good-sized truck, sometimes over long distances, to the slaughter scene.

Led out of the truck, the animals were killed and cut up as hastily as possible for delivery to black market purchasers.

There was no testing for animal diseases, naturally. No inspection or stamping of the meat to show it had been killed under approved conditions.

Instead the animals were killed in primitive fashion and the meat cut up into marketable portions.

As if these unsanitary and unhealthy conditions were not bad enough, the slaughterers piled one more offense on top of all the others.

The slaughtered meat, as soon as it was ready, was dumped willynilly back into the SAME truck in which the animals had been brought to the slaughter scene. There, mingled with animal refuse, it remained until delivered to the black market!

Sly Sales Balk Chicken Seekers

For the ninth consecutive week hundreds of Boston's little people stood long hours in line on the off chance they might secure a chicken for Sunday dinner. Before the one poultry store open in the market district they clustered, carrying numbered cards which permitted only a certain number of people within the store at any one time.

It was a fair system but, as a store manager said, "There just aren't enough chickens."

Up and down Fulton pl. other poultry establishments had paper plastered over their windows.

And in a back alley small knots of women gathered behind the closed establishments and received chickens handed through the windows.

The line to the open store extended the length of Fulton pl. It had started to form at 5 a. m. Men, women and children lugging shopping bags waited patiently long after the store's opening. Some of them munched sandwiches and confections purchased from a sidewalk pedlar.

Cheap Cheepers

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 22 (AP)—A barrel rolled off a passing truck and smashed in the street. The driver continued on his way to the city dump with his load of spoiled eggs from a hatchery.

Amidst the mess in the street were some 60 chirping chicks. They were quickly grabbed up by a fast gathering crowd.

Governors

and other New England states. We must feed them as well as our own people."

"Slaughter quotas are our chief gripe," declared Gov. Hildreth of Maine. "Our population increases 30,000 from summer vacationists and I don't see how any sane person could cut our slaughter quota.

"The OPA should change that ruling and change it fast. That and a lot of other of their regulations must be revised."

Pointing out that Rhode Island, of necessity, imported over 90 per cent of its food supplies, Gov. McGrath said there had been an alarming decline of imports in the past year.

"There's only one answer—the black market at the source of supply," he asserted. "The bulk of supplies of meat, poultry and other foodstuffs is going through black market channels and the poor man is taking the beating.

"As it stands now, one-third of the public is getting its supplies from old friends with whom it has traded for years, another third is getting it from the black market and the final third is going without.

"How can the OPA say honestly that their regulations are even fair? The time has come for OPA to revise its price structures and take steps to make sufficient allocation of meats to crowded New England areas. The OPA can do it if we can prod them off their soft chairs."

Gov. Tobin said he would offer the conference a seven-point program calling for adjustment of slaughtering quotas and allocation of red points; establishment of distribution contracts at processing level and licensing of foodstuff handling at all levels; allocation of more meat and eggs from the west of Massachusetts and New England and vacation areas; release of men for food and forage production and establishment of more flexibility in OPA regulations at state offices to meet problems before they develop to crucial size.

Gov. Dewey said that whatever action was taken by the conference would be reported to President Truman.

The New York executive had an appointment to confer with the President at the White House early next week on food problems, but a delay in adjournment of the United Nations Conference at San Francisco forced the White House to cancel it. Dewey said he expects to meet the President at the National Governor's Conference which opens in Mackinaw, Mich., July 1.

U. S. Denies Essex Refuge Peril to Health

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service denied today contentions of Massachusetts officials that establishment of a wildlife refuge in Essex County, Mass., would result in a "menace to health."

A 41-page brief filed with Sec. Ickes by Ira N. Gabrielson, director of the service, stated:

"It has been charged that the impoundments proposed for the Parker river national wildlife refuge will form additional mosquito breeding areas and create a menace to the health of communities as far away as Amesbury which is five to six miles away from the nearest proposed impoundment.

"Despite the large acreage of upland mosquito breeding already existing in the several towns concerned, the refuge has been held up as a threat of malaria to the townspeople. As a mater of fact there will be far better control over the refuge water areas than prevails over those in the surrounding countryside. There is little doubt that competent authorities will agree that the malaria menace has been greatly exaggerated in the present case."

As to a contention that 'many persons' are deprived of their homes, Gabrielson said that there are only four permanent year-round residents living on the lands.

As to contentions that the clamming industry would be destroyed, Gabrielson asserted:

"It has never been the intention to take any of the authority of the towns and state over the clam beds, and fishing on the area.

"In accordance with well-established policies, recreation uses such as bathing, picnicking, berry picking, nature study and the like are allowed at such places and at such periods that the use does not conflict with the primary purpose of the refuge."

Drivers Warned With Gas Boost

With the first increase in gasoline coupon values since rationing began becoming effective today, Massachusetts motorists were warned that losses are prepared to crack down on motor law violators if accidents show an increase.

The warning was issued by Horace C. Houghton, president of the Massachusetts Safety Council, who urged motorists to police their own driving to avoid an increase in fatal accidents and a resultant rise in insurance rates.

The A-16 coupons which became valid today are good for six gallons each, two gallons more than the previous A coupons. They are good through Sept. 21.

Swiss in Bid For U. S. Troops

The proposal was made to 10 U. S. officers for whom the Swiss waived the ration point requirements to demonstrate at sumptuous banquets the superiority of Swiss food.

Beginning July 15 U. S. soldiers will arrive at the rate of 5000 a day.

GIVE YOUR CAR A LIFT
FOR THOSE EXTRA MILES!

FRIDAY, JUNE 22, the value of your A gasoline coupon goes up from four to six gallons.

That 50% increase is mighty welcome. But it doesn't mean the need for fighting gas is almost over.

There's still a tough war to win — with long air and sea supply lines that will take a flood of fuel.

War must continue to be the petroleum industry's main job. Miracles of production have made possible this greater gasoline allotment to civilians. The next increase may be many months away. And most folks won't get new cars until after that.

So it's extra important to get the most out of the extra gas ration by keeping your old car in good condition.

Play safe — and be safe. Drop in at the friendly Atlantic dealer's near you for regular and careful check-ups — tires, battery, plugs, cooling system — everything.

And to assist the job of putting new life in the old car, depend on Atlantic Motor Oil and Atlantic Lubrication with Atlantic Gasoline, of course.

Today is a good time to start!

Leopold's Bride Seen Snag In Return to Belgian Throne

By FRANK CONNIFF

BRUSSELS, June 22 (INS)—Belgium's muddled political situation teems with fascinating contradictions, but the most bizarre aspect of all rages around the status of Leopold's 29-year-old commoner wife—the "woman I love" of the current crisis.

Leopold says his wife signed away all rights as queen before their marriage and agreed any children would not be in line of succession.

Opponents declare that if Leopold regains power his consort will rule as queen, whether he wills it or not.

"The Belgian constitutional law," said one anti-Leopoldite today, "says whoever is his wife is queen, and that is all there is to it."

Dark-haired and strikingly attractive, the former Lilian Baels would be a decorative addition to European royalty.

She was the governess of Leopold's three children by his marriage to the late Queen Astrid. Her marriage to Leopold while they were captives of the Germans has been extremely successful, according to friends.

This correspondent asked a friend of Lillian whether Leopold's wife had ever heard of Wallace Warfield Simpson Windsor, the woman for whom the Duke of Windsor gave up the British throne.

"Of course," answered the friend. "She read everything she could about Wallace. And the funny thing is she did not sympathize with Mrs. Simpson's ambition to become queen."

Close Call

CHICAGO, June 22 (AP)—Garland Miner, 32, was inside a railroad viaduct painting yesterday when he heard the Milwaukee road's Hiawatha streamliner approaching.

Miner's objective as he started running was the end of the viaduct and safety. He reached the viaduct end as the train, traveling 80 miles an hour, nudged him a glancing blow, fracturing his right leg.

Plan for Invasion Of Japan Revealed

By RAYMOND WILCOVE

WASHINGTON, June 22 (INS)—Gen. George C. Marshall informed Congress in recent hearings that Japan will be invaded after a shattering air offensive spearheaded by 1000-plane B-29 raids.

This was during consideration of a $38,500,285,950 War Department bill approved today by the House appropriations committee.

"There is little of military secrecy as to the general nature of our plans for the coming year," the Army chief of staff said.

"The offensives in the Pacific are to be intensified to the maximum degree possible. Air strikes of constantly increasing power will devastate the Japanese war-making facilities and defenses and pave the way for invasion."

Marshall, opposing a blockade of Japan and a war of attrition, stated:

"Economy in lives and materiel, as well as the psychology of the American people, demand that we mount a swift, powerful offensive, forcing a victory at the earliest possible date.

"We plan to gain victory speedily by an overwhelming application of force."

"There is a theory among some non-military people," interjected Rep. Mahon (D.) of Texas, "that we should perfect an airtight blockade of the Japanese islands, and just stick at out and win eventually a victory in a few years without the loss of life entailed by landing on Japan."

"From a purely military point of view," replied Marshall, "it is a question of avoiding attrition. A prolonged affair not only is very expensive financially, but costly in the end in men."

70,000 Strikers Cripple Nation's War Plants

By Associated Press

The nation's war production program bogged down today as a rising wave of work stoppages spread over a wide section of the country.

Nearly 70,000 workers were staying away from their jobs. The War Labor Board acted to end several of the strikes, some of which have been in progress for a week or longer.

The newest and one of the biggest strikes affected 15,000 CIO glass workers in plants in 10 cities. Workers in eight plants walked off the job at last night's strike deadline, joining 6000 who have been on strike at plants at Ford City and Creighton, Pa.

In Detroit, scene of scores of strikes, the main Packard Motor Co. plant was closed, keeping 20,000 workers from producing aircraft engines and marine engines for PT boats.

Chicago's trucking tieup remained serious and additional soldiers arrived to aid the government's attempt to break the work stoppage by some 6000 drivers from two unions.

Another work stoppage affected 6000 employes of an International Harvester Co. plant. The 1100 employes of the R. R. Donnelly & Sons Printing Co. in Chicago apparently ignored a WLB directive to return to their jobs, ending their 13-day-old work stoppage.

No change was reported in the strike of 400 bus drivers and mechanics of the tri-state company which has hampered transportation for more than 60,000 passengers.

Some 500 workers were idle in the Oakes production division of the Houdaille-Hershey Corp. at Decatur, Ill.

WASHINGTON June 22 (INS)—The Senate elections committee today postponed action for a week on President Truman's proposal to revise the line of succession to the presidency to "await further light" on the subject.

TOO CONFUSING

THE generally sunny disposition of Gov. Tobin is increasingly clouded by the Legislature's failure to adopt his pet revenue proposals, including the Sales Tax and a heavier levy on earned incomes.

We shall not go so far as to say that the genial chief executive is inconsistent.

Nor would we think of suggesting that he is trying to emulate the acrobat who broke his neck by trying to move in opposite directions at the same time.

We'll just content ourselves with the relatively mild observation that the amiable Governor's actions are hard to understand.

For instance, almost everybody—and, of course, Mr. Tobin—wants more liberal old age pensions.

But what does he do?

He risks the loss of millions of dollars of pension money by arbitrarily curtailing dog racing.

In one breath the Governor calls upon the major industries of the nation to accept the invitation of his new Department of Commerce and establish branches in Massachusetts.

Yet practically in the next breath he advocates revenue-raising schemes that would probably cause us to lose many of the important manufacturing concerns we already have if Senators and Representatives were sufficiently myopic to accept his advice.

The whole State, and particularly the old people and those who want work and wages, expected more inspiring leadership from Gov. Tobin.

TEACHERS' PLEA

SEVERAL HUNDRED Boston school teachers who are prevented by an outmoded regulation from receiving retirement pensions in excess of $600 a year recently petitioned the Legislature to allow them to obtain a maximum of $900.

Their request is so fair and modest that it should be granted speedily and without any opposition.

In view of the fact that all of us owe almost as much to our teachers as to our parents, it is a cruel injustice for the supposedly progressive Commonwealth of Massachusetts to require these provenly valuable public servants to spend their declining years in financial need.

Without further delay, the Legislature should adopt a law guaranteeing every teacher who retires at the age of seventy a pension equal to half the amount of her last annual salary.

Better, of course, would be legislation permitting veteran teachers to retire on FULL SALARY in the manner of judges and other officials whose earning power is usually much greater than that of the underpaid and under-valued teacher.

SAD LESSON

COHASSET taxpayers are shocked by the discovery that their tax rate has soared seven dollars—from $24 to $31.

But a great many Cohasset residents have only themselves to blame. Only a scant 250 were present at the recent town meeting at which the money that necessitated the boost in the tax rate was spent.

Property owners who wish to protect their pocketbooks should get out and vote.

HOPEFUL SIGN

THE USS ADMIRAL MAYO, famous Coast Guard transport, has brought 3722 repatriated American prisoners of war and 2085 veterans of overseas service to Boston.

This vessel came here under Government orders because this was the most desirable port. Private interests which have been hostile to Boston had nothing to say about it.

We hope the gentlemen in Washington will look upon Boston as favorably in peace as they have been obliged to look upon Boston in war.

AUTHOR OF the above will continue this poem as her boy grows older. It will be placed under snapshots of the lad at different ages. She should have written some lines to go with his cradle day snapshots. Those taken before he was three . . .

Judy Garland

Twenty years ago most film stars were marrying brokers or oil men. Fifteen years ago the popular choice of the cinema cuties was doctors. Now most of the glamorous Hollywoodians like Judy Garland are marrying producers, directors or actors' agents. For a brief period the film stars leaned towards newspaper men as life partners. They soon gave that up. A film star likes a husband she can handle. Matrimonially speaking, the newshawks are very hard to handle. A newspaper man is difficult to impress. He is also very independent. Then the usual technique used successfully by females doesn't work with a newspaper man. He knows all the angles. He has had tricky beauties cast loving glances at him and he has looked them in the eye and said calmly, "Get to the point, Baby, did you know this guy who was bumped off or didn't you?" The only thing a woman who is married to a newspaper man can do is to love him with all her might. Feed him well, see that he gets his laundry on time, stay away from his office and hope for the best.

QUERIES FROM CHINS: Q—Please decide the following argument that is disturbing the peace at the coffee shop counter where I work. How many divisions did the Allies have on the German front? How many of those were U. S. divisions and how many British? A.—The Allies had 91 divisions on the German front. Of these, 61 were United States divisions, 14 were British. The rest were French, Canadian and Polish. Q—Some of us stylish stouts in Detroit thought you were going to speak to some garment manufacturers you knew in our behalf. But nothing has happened. We still can't get hardly anything in our sizes. A—What, no shops in Detroit catering exclusively to the handsome generously proportioned ladies? Somebody is overlooking a good opportunity. Anyway, I should make a special trip to the garment center of Manhattan to demand action for our stylish stout subscribers. Not only that, I may be able to persuade some of the local large ladies to picket the manufacturers as "unfair to pleasingly plump patrons." So there, there, little large girl, don't you cry. You will be able to get size 46 by and by.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Was there a vaudeville sketch based on the idea of the song, "I Didn't Raise My Boy to Be a Soldier"? That's what a New Yorker asks. He thinks it was presented just before World War I. I don't recall it . . . Who, in your time, was the best mayor your city ever had? I think John Purroy Mitchel was New York's best . . . Holdup men continue to walk up to windows of bank tellers and demand cash. Some bandits are getting away with it, too. Once more I ask, why not a button for the teller to press which would cause holdup men to be dropped through a trapdoor, or something similar? Get to work, inventors!

Understand the English pay no income tax on dog race winnings. So why should they pay on horse race winnings?

GOLDFISH: Do you own a goldfish? Has the little fellow ever suffered from indigestion? What are you laughing about? A State of Washington subscriber tells me she had a goldfish that ate too rapidly. As a result, his body became bloated. The kindly owner of the fast eating fish then stroked his body gently with her fingers. This cured the condition. After a few weeks of this the goldfish caught on. He began to eat slowly. Now he never gets indigestion.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, June 22—The Office of War Information, our first national venture in propaganda, as such and undisguised, is now making propaganda for itself with intent to obtain from Congress more money than Congress is willing to appropriate for its services.

Westbrook Pegler

That the selfless toilers in censorship and the enlightenment of the ill-informed in other lands might be primarily concerned with their own government jobs and worried about their future in a competitive world, where mediocrity enjoys no subsidy and the wages of incompetence is failure, is a suspicion which, though firmly rejected, nevertheless recurs.

That the Communists in the OWI, including the European refugees who are refugees because they are Communists, want the American people to pay for their propaganda and lend it the strongly persuasive label of the Star Spangled Banner, no confidential comrade would deny.

IN THIS SITUATION, we are asked to pay a considerable share of the cost of converting to the Russian form of government the bewildered and be-devilled millions of Europeans who have just been delivered from one form of despotism and might like the American way for a change.

As to whether we have any legitimate mission to save them, as the missionary saves the heathen, there is not complete agreement among ourselves.

Some of us hold that our first concern should be to save the American way AT HOME. Others doubt that islands of freedom could survive the tide of Bolshevism rolling from the East.

There is a fascinating example of the wiles of the Communist propagandists of the OWI in its own arguments in its own behalf.

These abusive texts put forth the proposition that the typist and radio hecklers, the class-angling movie distortioners and pamphleteers of this mysterious bureau have been saving the lives of American fighting men by their courageous labors here in New York and Washington and that to the extent that its payrolls are reduced, Americans will die needlessly on foreign fields.

Members of Congress who examine the practices and personnel of OWI are thus accused of slaughtering their own innocent sons and the sons of their neighbors for reasons of petty politics.

This, I believe, is the only group of sedentary government employes on the home side who have nominated themselves for medals as the authors of victories in the field. Even the Red Cross is more modest of achievements which to the majority will seem more important by any comparison.

THE SCORE against the Office of War Information is that, from its very beginning, it has favored the theory that Communism is preferable to Fascism and Hitlerism and is a better antidote than Americanism.

Elmer Davis, the chief of the bureau, is more distinguished by a poll of white hair of shade, cut and texture which casting directors favor for the role of the district attorney than for any achievements in journalism or more beautiful letters.

In one of his earlier revelations of his own politics he said he identified as Communists those who denounced the war against Hitler as an imperialist campaign of aggression until Hitler attacked Stalin but perceived it to be a people's war next day.

Had the OWI been governed by that declaration in its selection of editors and other jobholders ever since, Davis might have earned the respect of Congress and the public although it does not necessarily follow that, even so, Congress should continue to meet his own estimates of his needs in money.

IF DAVIS had wanted to, he could have had an objective, truthful and informative service which would have represented us to disturbed peoples abroad in a manner to arouse their envy and desire.

Instead, we are at best a flabby substitute for a Bolshevik nation whose real initiation into the pleasures and spiritual restrictions of totalism is still around some corner.

If, as the OWI is now howling, an American soldier will die for every thousand pamphlets which, because of Congressional economy, it will be unable to drop on the Japanese, or some homesick serviceman will be kept abroad another week or month, then the matter should be taken up with Elmer Davis.

He had his chance but couldn't resist the tendency of the New Deal from the beginning to play ideology in a position of trust.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, June 22—Monty Woolley—beard and all—plays the head talent scout in George Jessel's new musical "Girl in the Moon." If that doesn't make you laugh, then nothing will!

But this is not a comedy—don't get that in your mind. It is a serious story of how talent is discovered in Hollywood. Actual incidents will be shown and all of 20th's glamor girls will take part in the musical, with the actual studio as their background.

Monty Woolley

Frank Gabrielson is writing the story and he will not only tell how 20th's favorite boys and gals happen to land in the movies, but he will tell the story of how stars from other studios were discovered. You'll see what goes into the training of a star who comes into the studio cold, from the big outside world. All sounds, I must say, as if we were going to see a different kind of musical.

I THINK it would be very nice to have the life of Maury Paul, who had a most interesting career as a social reporter, put on the screen, but I don't believe Leonard Mac Bain can use the name "Cholly Knickerbocker," which belongs to the Hearst newspapers. Maury, who started his column as "Dolly Madison," first attracted the attention of Marion Davies when he was on a small evening paper. It was she who recommended him and there has never been another society reporter to come anywhere near him. Maury never red-appled any of his social pets. He called them as he saw them—and maybe he was right.

CLAUDE RAINS had better get all the fresh air and sunshine he can on his Pennsylvania farm while the getting is good, because when he returns this week-end he'll be licked up on various sound stages for the next six months. First, he reports to Universal for "As It Was Before," with Merle Oberon and Charles Korvin, and then, as we told you before, he makes "Angel on My Shoulder," with Paul Muni. Seems funny to realize that Rains hasn't made a picture in Hollywood for over a year—he's always in such demand. He took time out to go to London to co-star with Vivien Leigh in "Caesar and Cleopatra" and he's been leading the life of a country gentleman since he came home.

ELEANOR PARKER, who has become one of Hollywood's most popular gals since her divorce (Eleanor seemed very much married for so long and so demure) has suddenly become the favorite girl friend of many of our gay young gents. I don't mean that in any depreciating way, because what lady wouldn't like to be in demand? Eleanor will now meet her match in "Don't Ever Leave Me," with Errol Flynn. She is to be his leading lady and they should be interesting company on the screen.

★ ★ ★

BOB HOPE, who hates to be sick more than anyone I know, says he has never been as sick as he was this time with his overseas shot. He was gone four days and you know the irrepressible Hope has to be really sick to give in. Jerry Colonna, Gail Robbins and all his crowd of entertainers, arrive in Paris Saturday and he'll be gone until Aug. 1. Then when he comes back he'll make, as we have told you, "Monsieur Beaucaire"—a movie he's going to have lots of fun doing.

"I'm still a little skeptical about his being an admiral! I don't think admirals wear uniforms quite like that!"

★ ★ ★

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Errol Flynn was surprised—to put it mildly—when he walked into his birthday party to find that Bruce Cabot had invited Nora Eddington, Lili Damita and three or four young ladies who have starred in Errol's private life during the past few years. Bruce played no favorites. He collected all the girls on whom Flynn had showered attention in the past, and the expression on Errol's face was something to see when he walked into the room. Bruce gave a very nice party and everyone was there but Lili who at the last minute didn't show up. Bruce just had to play a joke on his pal, but it wasn't funny to Nora and Errol.

I'M GLAD I'M not a movie actress. I know I would never have the patience to play scenes over and over again. Ralph Staub came to my house to direct me for the 25th anniversary number of "Screen Snapshots." He brought 30 men for sound, camera and lights. We went out in the garden. I got myself all prettied up and started to speak my lines. Whzzzz—went a plane over the house—the take was spoiled. I started again. Got half way through and my little dog started barking. Another start. This time the Lana Reed's youngest started crying next door—and another take was spoiled. Finally, all was quiet and peaceful, and just as I got to the very last sentence—a fly lit on my nose, and the cameraman yelled "Stop!" Then when all was quiet, I blew my lines. Finally the scene was made and I guess the boys were all as relieved as I was.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Eleanor Roberts Phillips, Look magazine fashion editor, is expecting her second child in October. She's the wife of Franklin Phillips, also an editor; the Brooklyn Common Miranda and Nancy Coleman put on a Carmen almost as good as the one Carmen does with Walter Winchell; Mrs. Zanuck had a cable from Darryl saying that he'll be home Saturday; Pat O'Brien has spread a net over his swimming pool so there will be no danger of any of his children drowning. That seems to me to be a very smart idea; Charlie Chaplin's picture, "The Great Dictator" is now playing in 100 theaters in Argentina; don't be surprised if Gene Autry and Republic settle their legal differences out of court. He's been having some very friendly confabs with his boss, Herb Yates; Oscar Levant is a papa for the third time—another gal. His wife is the former June Gale; Virginia O'Brien's baby, a girl, arrived yesterday. Her name is Theresa Alyn. Papa is Kirk Alyn.

BETTY HUTTON leaves the day before the 4th on the first lap of her trip to Germany. She'll be met in Chicago by a sailor, a soldier and a marine, who will help her put on a bond rally; Faye Emerson played agent for Barbara Brewster, ex-wife of Al Bloomingdale, and landed her a job; Maxwell Anderson, who has had quite a whirl out here, is on his way back to New York to get Ingrid Bergman's play ready. After that he'll write one for Helen Hayes. Saw him at Romanoff's the other night at a dinner party given by Maria Montez and Jean Pierre Aumont. Buy bonds at your favorite motion picture theater.

WASHINGTON, June 22—I walked into the Senate press gallery the other day as I was hailed by a loafing colleague who said:

"Sen. Young is looking for you. He wants to punch you in the nose."

"That is no kind of him." I said. "But why is Sen. Young? I remember distinctly looking through the Congressional Directory the other day and the alphabetical list of Senators ended with George A. Wilson of Iowa."

"That you did," agreed my colleague. "What's more, you wrote a piece about it, too. That is why Sen. Young wishes to punch you in the nose. It seems you read him right out of the United States Senate."

As everyone knows, I am as smart as a steel trap so I gave the fellow my best know-it-all smirk and demanded:

"They put all the names of Senators in the Congressional Directory, don't they? So if there is a Senator named Young, why is he not in the Directory? Answer me that, you Dithyrambic Tomnoddy."

"Kiddo, it will get you nowhere with me," returned my colleague. "The reason he is not in the Directory is that he came here after the volume was printed. Even you should be able to understand that."

I HAVE NEVER had the honor of being trumped in the matter of a Senator, either in front of the Congressional Directory so I contacted Senator Young. He turned out to be a very nice fellow indeed, harboring practically no thoughts of assault and battery.

I explained that I had been misled by the Directory and said I hoped I had not caused him any inconvenience.

"Think nothing of it," he said. "Nothing that happens to me in Washington can bother me much again. Not since I lost both my hotel room and my clothes."

"Your what . . ."

"Yes," said Senator Young, "shortly after coming here, I managed to get a room at the Shoreham Hotel. It was nice to be in a hotel because friends back home had urged me to bring a wigwam or tepee, saying there was some kind of housing shortage in Washington.

"A short time ago, however, I had to go to Pittsburgh as a member of the senatorial subcommittee investigating black marketing. With me were Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana and Sen. Raymond E. Willis of Indiana.

"When I returned, they told me my hotel room was gone; that they thought I had checked out. I asked for my clothes and was calmly informed I didn't have any.

"Well, no man likes to be told he has no clothes, so I put up quite a howl. They said they would investigate. While the search was on, I was given temporary haven in the room of Sen. Warren G. Magnuson of Washington who lives in the same—er—hotel.

"They managed to locate my clothes after a time, but I still had no place to sleep. So do you know what I had to do?

"I had to bunk in for three nights with one of the Congressmen from my State, Rep.

MEMBERS OF the Senate have a lovely ministering angel in the person of Mrs. Anna Monat, former secretary to the late secretary of the Senate, Col. Edwin A. Halsey. Mrs. Monat is now with one of the committees but she is still kind to all Senators wherever met.

The other day Sen. Happy Chandler of Kentucky was about to leave the floor when he was grabbed by Majority Leader Barkley, who wished to confer with him. Happy stopped to listen, but, when he resumed his journey, the left patch pocket of his coat remained behind.

It seemed it had caught on the edge of Barkley's desk.

Mrs. Monat, who happened to be in the senatorial waiting room, observed Happy's plight and ordered him to divest himself of the ripped coat forthwith. She then produced thread and needle from only Anna knows where—and performed a competent job of mending-done-while-you-wait.

"Heaven will doubtless reward you for this good deed," beamed Happy. "Remember—as ye sew, so shall ye reap."

"Thank you," said Mrs. Monat demurely, "But I seldom do any reaping!"

Divine Tan Make-Up

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

IF YOU'RE an umbrella girl all summer long . . . figuratively speaking, of course . . . carefully hiding your delicate, Dresden-like complexion from the toasting, even scorching touch of the sun . . . you certainly don't want your local expanse to be one of whipped-cream whiteness. Looking like a bronzed goddess can be an illusion, you know . . . and a mighty neat and intriguing one . . . if your skin, from past experience, has warned you against making it a reality.

And, while a deep-tanned, sun-kissed look is a color achievement in summer . . . it isn't at all necessary to suffer through devastating spells of sun-tanning to bring its glorious, healthy and vibrant appearance to your complexion. Thanks to the genius of the cosmetic chemists and what comes out of their forever-to-be-praised test tubes . . . your face can be veiled with summertime beauty with what comes out of a frosted bottle.

For a glorious name in cosmetics . . . after the culmination of long experiments to develop a deep suntan shade which will NOT darken on the skin . . . will NOT streak or turn yellow . . . has just created a make-up that can put the real thing to shame . . . with its deep sunlit gold tan illusion. It has just a hint of pink in it . . . producing a most beautiful effect . . . truly a cosmetic creation of the burnished bronze shade of a sun goddess.

JUST A DROP OF LIQUID LOVELINESS

So sit under your umbrella . . . be a picturesque sunshade girl . . . and fool those who gaze at you with the way you achieved this stunning appearance. If you are pale . . . it will give you a suntan as natural looking as if you had spent weeks cultivating it. If you have acquired a little tan . . . it will add youthful enhancement to what you have.

There are co-ordinated cosmetics to go with this petal-smooth beauty veil . . . such as powder, rouge and lipstick . . . to make perfect the complete summertime picture. Just a drop of this liquid loveliness dotted over the face and throat . . . blended evenly and smoothly . . . and the flattering effect of a sheer veil in summertime color ecstasy is yours for hours.

Beauty can be reduced to a simple formula . . . and this divine deep-tan make-up color for summer . . . is an exquisite substitute . . . especially for gals like you and me who keep pretty much to our offices when the sun is strong.

For the name of this deep-tan veil of beauty, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CHEEKS OF TAN can be a heavenly illusion . . . even more lovely than the real thing . . . especially with a new deep tan veil of beauty creation that shades the face with the burnished bronze of a sun goddess . . . without any of the dire hardships which usually accompany sitting in the sun for hours acquiring it. The sunshade girl . . . who likes the summertime . . . but not the devastating rays of the sun . . . will heartily welcome a new illusionary make-up that will not darken on the skin, will not streak or turn yellow.

Tops in Sauces

By MARTHA LEE

FRESH succulent garden vegetables prepared in a variety of ways, can help to solve many monotonous menus. And when meat is scarce a well seasoned white sauce with cheese or egg added will add the protein needed to help make the vegetable a more substantial main dish.

Tiny, tender green onions are sweet and delicious when cooked only until tender—about 2 or 3 minutes cooking time is all that is required. Serve them steaming hot on toasted buns topped with a tasty cheese sauce or a creamy white sauce to which sliced hard-cooked eggs have been added. Or reverse the order and serve cooked, diced green onions in the sauce to be poured over sliced hard-cooked eggs on toast.

GREEN ONION SHORTCAKES

3 bunches green onions
2 cups medium white sauce
3 hard-cooked eggs
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
6 slices toast or buns

SAUCE:

2 tbsp. butter or drippings
¼ tbsp. flour
¼ tsp. pepper
Few grains cayenne
1 tsp. salt
2 cups milk.

Wash onions. Cook whole, in a tightly covered saucepan in an inch of boiling water until tender; drain. Melt butter or drippings in top of double boiler; add flour and seasonings and blend thoroughly. Gradually add milk and cook over boiling water until smooth and thickened, stirring constantly. Fold in sliced hard-cooked eggs and Worcestershire sauce and blend thoroughly, cooking only until hot. Place hot green onions on toasted buns and top with egg sauce. Makes 6 servings.

ASPARAGUS IN CREAM

Wash and scrub asparagus and break off tough ends. Cut in 2-inch pieces, reserving tips. Have ready in heavy kettle about 1 inch boiling water. Add dash each of salt and sugar, and the cut stalks of asparagus. Cover tightly and cook over low heat about 10 minutes. Add tips and cook about 5 minutes longer, just until tender. Drain, return to kettle, and reheat with ½ cup thin cream or 1 cup thin cream sauce. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Allow ¼ pound per serving.

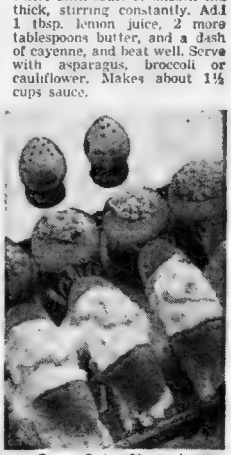
THIN CREAM SAUCE

2 tbsp. butter or margarine
1 tbsp. flour
½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
1 cup milk

Melt butter in small saucepan and stir in flour and seasonings. When well blended add milk slowly, stirring constantly over low heat until mixture thickens slightly and boils. Makes 1 cup sauce.

QUICK HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

After sauce has thickened, stir a little of the hot mixture into 2 slightly beaten egg yolks. Pour egg mixture into remaining hot sauce and cook over hot water until sauce is smooth and thick, stirring constantly. Add 1 tbsp. lemon juice, 2 more tablespoons butter, and a dash of cayenne, and beat well. Serve with asparagus, broccoli or cauliflower. Makes about 1½ cups sauce.



Green Onion Shortcakes

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, THURSDAY—I have been sent, by the Communist Political Ass'n, a statement of the resolution which they will vote on as an expression of the American Communist point of view. As a document, it is excellent; but I think I should clarify, for two groups in this country, the column which I wrote a short time ago.

The Communist Political Ass'n felt I had not been entirely fair with them. On the other hand, I have been praised by some people who, whenever they differ with anyone, decide that that person should be labelled a Communist, and who are also afraid of our association with the USSR.

* * *

MY WHOLE DESIRE in writing this column on the American Communists was to show how it is possible to work with the USSR and the people of that great country, and why we need have no fear of them.

Those of us who take the trouble to understand it know what Communism in Russia is.

While for obvious reasons the people of Russia are still largely dictated to by their leaders, they have objectives and opportunities for growth in freedom, just as we had when we wrote our Constitution.

We have not quite attained the objectives which we wrote into our Constitution, but they are there as standards by which we measure our success. No one has any doubt of what our government is. No one need have any doubt as to what the government of the USSR is today, nor as to the hopes and aims of its people. We may not agree with those aims or methods, but we need not fear what we know.

I, for one, think Democracy better than Communism if the people exercise their power.

* * *

I HOPE the Communist Political Ass'n will forgive me if I am frank with them. What I object to in the American Communists is not their open membership, nor even their published objectives. For years, in this country, they taught the philosophy of the lie, that allegiance to the party, and acceptance of orders from party heads whose interests were not just those of the United States, were paramount.

I believe anyone has a right to be a Communist.

But because I have experienced the deception of the American Communists, I will not trust them. That is what I meant when I said that I did not think the people of this country would tolerate the type of American Communists who say one thing and do another.

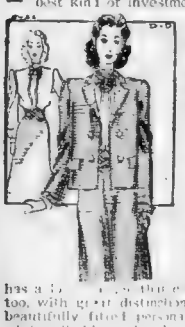
Suit Good Investment

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THERE is never a time in this contemporary scene when a very good suit isn't about the best kind of investment.



The fine suit must have, first of all, really good material. Secondly, it must have good cut and lines. Thirdly, it should be simple and never loud or eccentric. Such a suit is going to pay dividends over a period of years when lesser suits have fallen in the battle of wear and tear.

One of the best suits I have seen is sketched, and from a great designer. Made of fine black and gray-checked wool, it has a [illegible] that can be worn over dresses, too, with great distinction. The gray skirt has a beautifully fitted peplum kind of top, and the white silk blouse is adorned with black and gold lines of [illegible].

Early Garden Crops Quick To Go By These Warm Days

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head, Vegetable Gardening Department, Norfolk County Agricultural School, and Director of the Daily Record-American-Advertiser Garden on Boston Common.

The average gardener will soon realize that warm weather brings crops along fast, and that some of his early crops have gone by before he could use them up. It is not always advisable to wait until the last day to obtain maximum yield, as this causes crops to become coarse.

Let me again suggest that you start using your early crops soon and in this way avoid waste later on.

Our demonstration garden has come along so fast in the last week that we have harvested all our early spinach and much of the iceberg lettuce. To have left it in would have meant considerable spoilage and also a waste of time as regards succession crops. If weather permits we will replant this land by Saturday or the first of the week.

In getting ready for succession crops, clean off all crop refuse, loosen soil with cultivator, work in fertilizer and get land in good shape before planting. Rotate crops if possible.

These light green worms are now beginning to work on early cabbage, cauliflower, and broccoli. They prefer to eat the tender inside leaves and can do quite a little damage before they are noticed.

The best control on young plants is to dust with arsenate dust, but as the heads begin to form use rotenone. As cabbage leaves are smooth, it is not practical to use wet sprays. Dust plants regularly so as to produce clean heads.

If you are setting cabbage now it is not necessary to use the paper discs for maggot control. The season for maggot attacks is over and late attacks here are seldom heavy. Cutworms are still around, however, so it may pay to use collars for a while.

We have had a number of requests for help on early beets which do not seem to be growing well. I find that beets respond to a side dressing of nitrate of soda as much as any crop and may need it now, due to the heavy rains which may have leached out the soluble plant food.

Salvage Drive In Last Day

Rallying to the urgency of providing materials desperately needed for prosecuting the war against Japan, residents in Wards 15 to 18 contributed 287,700 pounds of waste paper, 42,750 pounds of tin and 3300 pounds of old rags, in Boston's three-way monthly drive, Salvage Director George G. Hyland announced today.

In today's windup the salvage trucks will cover Wards 19 to 22. A supplementary collection will be made Monday in Wards 11 to 14, where Wednesday's heavy rain interrupted the regular collection.

Just a handful now...

BUT SURELY MORE TO COME

AS WAR NEWS GETS BETTER, telephone news will get better, too, for the many people now waiting for service.

Still, it is likely to be a long wait before equipment is available to serve all applicants; but we are doing everything we can to make that time as short as possible.

For nearly three years almost all the telephone equipment we could make has gone to war, but recently we were able to start making new telephones for civilians. However, this should be viewed only as a sign of better things to come, because the handful of instruments now being made will not by any means solve the problem.

Even to a greater extent than instruments, we will need more central office equipment than can possibly be produced in the near future to take care of many of those now waiting for service. Then, when such equipment is on hand, it will take more time to install it.

So we still cannot say when new service will be generally available. We can only say that the outlook is growing steadily brighter.

Summer Rain Follows Spring

Coming only a few hours after the official arrival of summer in Boston, an all-night rainfall washed the local weather record back to normal—or the normalcy that marked the wettest spring on record.

The temperature, which had dropped to 65 during the night began a slight upward trend shortly after dawn, but the weather man predicted it would not go higher than the middle 70's.

He even leaned over backward to please his patrons and promised "some sunshine" during the day.

The forecaster said it would be fair tonight and warmer tomorrow.

Doris, World's Richest Girl, Plans Newspaper Career

ROME, June 22 (INS)—Doris Duke, tired of being just the richest girl in the world, declared today that she is going to embark on a newspaper career because of her desire to "do something constructive in life." She expressed her views to Michael Chuniga, head of the International News Service Bureau in Rome. He interviewed Miss Duke at the request of the journalistic trade publication, Editor and Publisher.

Doris Duke

Doris confessed that the newspaper "bug" first bit her in 1941 in Honolulu.

She said she once thought to use a nom de plume in her journalistic work, but decided to stick to her own name because "it is complicated enough as it is."

Doris added:

"My efforts are being entirely directed to learning the exacting procedures of accurate and good reporting. It is the toughest thing I have ever tackled—but it has given me more satisfaction than anything I've done."

SYRIANS ATTACK FRENCH

ALEPPO, Syria, June 21 (delayed) (AP)—Reports reached here today that north Syrian tribesmen had driven 30 French soldiers from Djerablous across the frontier into internment in Turkey after a skirmish Wednesday in which some French were killed and wounded

Q I am married to a service man and haven't heard from him for nearly one year. He was last stationed at an Army camp in Florida. Could you please help me to locate him by furnishing me address of proper authorities to contact. L. H., So. End.

A—Write Adjutant General, U. S. Army, Washington, D. C. (Give soldier's full name, serial number and last known address.

Q I am a veteran and now receiving Vocational Training under GI Bill. I receive partial wages from employer and Veterans Administration will pay monthly amount. If a state or Federal bonus is passed will the VA money be deducted from me? A. V., Boston.

A—If a state bonus is adopted there would be no deductions due to any federal benefits received. However, if federal government adopts legislation for so-called bonus, under present laws any money spent for educational purposes under GI Bill could be deducted.

Q I am a widow receiving $87 monthly allotment from my son in service. He is planning to wed shortly. Does that mean my allotment will be reduced any or cut-off entirely? E. E., Natick.

A—No, your allotment will continue and your son's intended wife will receive $50. However, a total of $37 will be deducted from son's pay each month unless it is stopped at the present $12.

Q My husband is 37 years of age, has been classified 4-F and working in a war plant. This plant is about to close and he has just received a card placing him in 2-B for 1-A month's period. Considering his age and having been in 4-F does that mean now that he will be drafted? P. A. T., Plymouth.

A—Selective Service state that he is temporarily deferred and even though 37 years of age could be called up for another physical examination. If found to be okay he is eligible for induction. Many war workers who have been deferred are now being called up for induction, providing they are under the 38 year age mark.

Q—Could you please tell me how the family of a soldier killed in Germany could apply for his personal belongings. Also how we could find out where he is buried and number of his grave? Who do we contact to have his body sent home after hostilities cease in the Pacific? T. G. B., Boston.

A—Regarding his personal belongings you may write Personal Effects Quartermaster, U. S. Army Quartermaster Depot Kansas City, Mo. Through the Adjutant General's Office Registration of Graves Branch, U. S. Army, Washington, D. C., might be able to give you the desired information concerning place of burial. Your last question is one that cannot be answered now. The government has indicated that there is a possibility the same procedure followed at the close of World War I would be carried out again. That is, returning bodies to the United States if so requested by next of kin.

Benny Goodman Still at Tops

By PEGGY DOYLE

That swing notable whose name on a program is what Cartier's is on a jewelbox started-one of his inevitable record-shattering engagements at the RKO-Boston yesterday.

Benny Goodman

He is, as if you did not know, Benny Goodman, whose clarinet and musical organization have built up a coast-to-coast popularity on stage, screen and major networks over the years as stable as Boston's First National Bank. Yesterday's show added further luster to that gleaming reputation. It is a smash hit production. We plan to catch it again.

A stillness in which you could hear a gumdrop followed Goodman's announcement that he would play a clarinet specialty, "Clarinet a la King," and that is news in RKO-Boston circles. Goodman played it like the clarinet king he is, and the applause threatened the light fixtures.

Goodman's all-star sextette, heard here for the first time, is a sensational music-making group . . . Red Norvo, vibraphone; Slam Stuart, bass; Charlie Queener, piano; Morey Feld, drums; Mike Bryan, guitar, and Goodman, clarinet. When "After You've Gone" is better played, this all-star sextette will play it.

Norvo's vibraphone specialty number was another ne plus ultra.

For comedy purposes, Tim Herbert is the best bet of the week. This fugitive from the Broadway musical, "Follow the Girls," does radio impressions of crooners and such, a jitterbug routine and contributes some comedy patter, all of it designed to keep the customers chuckling when they're not guffawing. They did, alternately.

PAUL FIX AND JOHN WAYNE in "Back to Bataan," which will have its world premiere at Keith Memorial Theater on Monday.

'Back to Bataan' Premiere

The world premiere of "Back to Bataan," inside story of the guerilla army of the Philippines inspired warfare against the Japanese, will open at Keith Memorial Theater on Monday with the picture's stars, plus Ellen Drew and other screen favorites appearing in person at every opening day performance.

The stars of "Back to Bataan" are John Wayne, Anthony Quinn, Fely Franquelli, Beulah Bondi, Leonard Strong and Duckie Louie.

The film is based on fact and its scenes are derived from actual incidents as the Filipinos took to the hills, swamps and jungles and harassed the Nips until MacArthur returned.

For Sunday evening a slew of shows has been arranged, for a two-fold purpose . . . . benefit to "Back to Bataan" and a means of raising funds for a downtown civic center for servicemen's wives and mothers.

"MARINKA' IS A BIG HIT . . . SEE IT!
. . . Best Operetta since 1911 . . . The stage is a paradise of romantic song."—Lee Gaffney, Record.
"IT'S THE ANSWER . . .
'Marinka' Bubbles with Gay Song, Beauty and Talent . . . Has Sparkle, Color . . . Pretty Girls . . . Hit Parade Tunes and Eye-Appeal"—Peggy Doyle, American.
"A LIVELY MUSICAL excellent singers, dancers and comedians . . . A Handsome Production . . . Good Numbers."—Helen Eager, Traveler.
"'MARINKA' IS THE SORT OF PLAY THAT MANY LIKE"—Elliot Norton, Post.
"A HANDSOME PRODUCTION and a pleasant evening of wine, beautiful women and luscious waltzes."—Cyrus Durgin, Globe.

General Patton Blesses Great American Non-Com

By AUSTEN LAKE

I HEARD GEN. GEORGE PATTON breathe a profane prayer of thanksgiving! He said "Thank God for our non-coms," embroidering his votive with a sulphurous string of cusses. He was watching a Yankee Division platoon of combat engineers building a timber bridge over a narrow river in the Saar Valley.

Austen Lake

Some of the men wore rubber waders such as are associated with trout fishermen. And some were nude except for their skivvies. And all wallowed in the shallow, icy mountain stream—bulldozing the bottom, bedding down their stout log supports on stone bases, locking the spans and bolting down the guardrails on the treadway top.

At less than minute intervals shrapnel bursts flowered overhead, bright electric flashes that blossomed into black smudges and hung in the air like dark cabbages. The explosions brought fuzz to the tongue and a metallic acid taste in the throat—the taste of fear! But the men worked with the calm precision of sand hogs in a subway, seldom glancing at the ear-shattering bursts which freckled the valley, although they knew the Nazi gunners were timing their fuses for their benefit.

There was a duty sergeant with a bony jaw and a ripple of sun-scorched muscle. He was chewing tobacco with a rhythmic chawmp of his chin, and sloshing around from one group to another yelping nasal commands, "At does it . . . Eezee Joe! . . . Level'r off Gus . . . now up a little, whoa! . . . Gimme a cinch bar . . . Hey Pop, where's Pop?"

The Backbone of Our Army

PATTON STOOD OFF WITH his growly face puckered like the top of a potato sack and gurgling godams, as was his way when he is pleased, and sometimes when he is not. In the nearby village German mothers were herding their children into cellars and unattached GI's sought sanctuary in stout stone barns. But the engineers worked without flinching like a well drilled football team. "Thank God for our non-coms," said Patton again.

I have watched many combat operations and have never ceased to echo the general. Yes! Thank God for our non-coms, those two and three stripers and the "zebra men" as they call the many chevroned top sergeant. Generals get the public credit in parades and official welcome dinners. But these are the backbone of the Army and the ones who, in the final show down, furnished the punch and guts that win the war; the gristle-and-bone men who have the qualities of leadership of a football captain, the trick of off-duty fellowship and on the field business.

Further along the road was a veritable pig-wallow of hub-deep, chocolate goo and here were more combat engineers engaged ingloriously with hand sledges cracking huge boulders for road fill. A corporal in charge of the detail was swinging his hammer with the rest though he didn't have to. No convicts on a rock pile ever worked harder. Yet here were men in the Army of democracy and here too were smudges of shrapnel breaking over the traffic lanes within easy observation of the distant hills.

The point I stress is that these men, trained to the ordinaries of U. S. civil life, were performing the most soulsearching labor known to man under enemy fire—the unsung legion who made it possible for the guns, men and material to keep advancing. Without them we might still be in Normandy.

Well then there was a battalion of 26th Division Infantry plodding up a nest of wooded hills. The frowning pine forest crowning the hills were spaced with underbrush and winding dirt roads. A scant quarter mile ahead our scout patrols were engaging the enemy with machine guns, rifles and mortars—ripping snorts of sound that echoed through the deep glens and came back from multiple directions.

The "Godam Infantree"

THE LONG LINE OF SUPPORTING infantry advanced along the roads, plodding with blank-faced, unemotional slouch of all doughboys. Some carried machine-gun tripods on their shoulders and some metal ammo boxes, their feet sinking into the muck, a terrible deliberation in each step. This was the "godam infantree," as they like to call themselves, though with no sense of inferiority—the rain-mud-wind-fog-and-snow boys who lived without comfort. Men from the common levels of U. S. life, even as you and I. Young men prematurely aged by overlays of grime, muck, whiskers and fatigue.

There was no excitement in their eyes, no hatred, no despair, no joy—just the expressionless mask of men who might have been doing this forever, a fixation of purpose, a deadening fatalism. They passed over a road embankment and fanned out in a broad skirmish front, their rifles at the conventional high port.

Their corporals and sergeants coached them quietly as they walked. "Keep 'at interval, you guys . . . Fan out'n the left . . . Dress that center, hey! hey! hey! . . . Now down, ev'body, DOWN." And the first wave would huddle against the sod while behind them other waves advanced. O repetitiously! O inexorably! While the non-coms yipped, now sharply, now banteringly in the throaty tone of brotherhood, "Keep them muzzles outa the dirt! . . . extra ca'tridge clips handy . . . now up, UP, ev'body, hey! hey! hey!"

Curiously there seemed no sense of mortal danger. The anesthetized mind repudiated reality, that those ripping sounds over the hill were actually men trying to kill each other. I remember a corporal saying, "Just like the picture books." And so today and tomorrow in the Pacific combat areas men in mustard are going forward like that under their non-coms, the tough-gentle, rough-smooth fraternity of young American manhood. Thank God! Thrice be our thanks for our non-coms.

Lake Homers With 2 on As Sox Hammer Senators

FENWAY PARK, June 22—Emmett O'Neill, twice victor over Washington this season, matched right arms with ancient John Niggeling today as the Red Sox and Senators opened a four-game series here. SECOND INNING

THIRD INNING

SENATORS—Niggeling struck out. Case popped to Steiner. Myatt was called out on strikes. NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING

SENATORS—Vaughn lined to Culberson. Kuhel walked. Binks hit into a double play, Metkovich to Lake to Metkovich. NO RUNS.

Ferriss Is Granted Chance to Hurl Sunday

By HERB FINNEGAN

Washington's Senators came to Fenway Park today, to remain through Sunday, and on Sunday Dave Ferriss will make his 12th start of the season for the Red Sox. He asked for and was granted permission to pitch after being chased from the box by the Yankees in the 13-run fifth-inning of Thursday's 14-4 debacle.

"I was overdue for a shellacking," said the non-alibiing air corps dischargee, sipping on a bottle of coke and talking to two servicemen. "You got to take it when you haven't got your control, and I didn't have my control."

Relief pitcher Red Barrett trooped into the dressing room. "Great day for both of us," said Barrett. "I couldn't get anybody out."

Bob Johnson followed a moment later. "Get a good licking while you're getting it," he philosophized. "That should purge our systems."

Press box critics were wondering if Ferriss had lost his touch. In his last four starts he has (1) been combed for 14 hits by the A's, though a 5-2 winner; (2) been beaten 3-2 by the Yanks; (3) given up four runs in the fifth to the Senators, though winning 6-5, and (4) chased by the Yanks in the fifth inning.

"Not so you'd notice it," said Umpire Jim Boyer who worked behind the plate. "He had good stuff, real good stuff, though his control was off. In the first inning he fanned Crosetti on a fast ball that darted past him like a black snake. Later, it looked as if he was trying for the corners too much because he was only an inch or two off the plate."

Actually the only ball that was hit hard during the fatal fifth was Mike Garbark's opening single. Dubiel walked, Stirnweiss hit a grounder that looked like a double play ball but it just eluded Steiner who was worming toward first for the bunt. Crosetti's double was an ordinary fly that hit the bottom of the fence. Johnson has made more difficult catches. Then Ferriss walked Martin and Etten, Lazor muffed Metheny's drive and Grimes' blooper dropped in right safely.

Stainback flied out but when Garbark batting less than .100, followed with a broken bat double over short, Cronin knew Ferriss' luck was out running and yanked him. Seven runs came over in that time, and the other six were tallied off Barrett and Heflin.

The Sox have been playing bang-up ball behind Ferriss. This was one time they weren't hot. Pity, too, because the best weekday crowd in years (15,110 paid) came out to root for Ferriss, to root the Sox into second place. Both Ferriss and the Sox will do better. Maybe Sunday.

Cooper Goes After Dodgers

By BILL GRIMES

BROOKLYN, June 22—After knocking the fading Giants into the second division, the Braves moved into Ebbetts Field today with expectations of cooling off the cocky Dodgers. Dem Bums are setting the pace in the National League and again are the pride and joy of all Brooklynites. So the Braves will cut in on three capacity crowds, totalling more than 100,000 (weather permitting) over the week-end.

The Braves and Dodgers are scheduled to play under the lights tonight and tomorrow and wind up the series with a Sunday double-header.

During the Dodgers' recent visit to Braves Field, Mgr. Bob Coleman's pitching corps was at low ebb. Nate Andrews was vacationing at his Rowland, N. C., home and Al Javery was out of action with a sore arm. And, to further complicate matters for the Tribe, neither Jim Tobin nor Mort Cooper, had their stuff when they went to the firing line. Then, too, Ira Hutchinson, who relieved both Tobin and Cooper, failed to deliver on both occasions.

Manager Coleman will send Mort Cooper after the Dodgers tonight. "Coop" has had four days rest. He should be at the peak of his form. And, also, he may be a little rough with "Lippy's" boys, for taking so kindly to his offerings last Sunday at home. Cooper isn't a good loser. As he will be facing the only club that has beaten him this season, he will pour it on the "Bums."

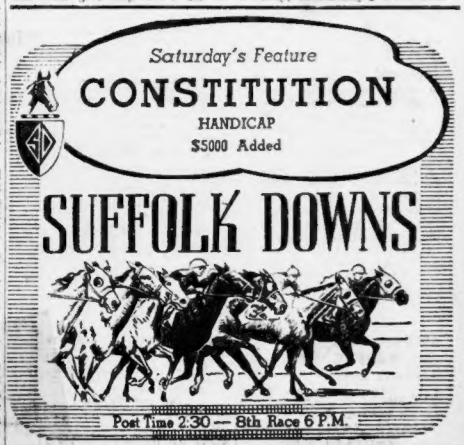
The Braves have developed a winning spirit this season.

They didn't have the old urge to fight back. When opponents jumped the gun and took over a two or three run lead in the early innings they called it a day. Three tallies down means nothing to the Braves this season.

On his way to the bench after the Giants had belted Hutchings for five hits, including two home runs in the first round Tuesday night, Joe Medwick told large John, "keep pitching, big boy. We'll get those runs back for you. And then we go on and beat their ears off."

The Braves are giving Bob Coleman the old college try. Due to their offensive power, with good pitching, the Braves can, and will, give any club in the league a battle right down to the final out. This club hasn't a second division complex. In the 53 games played, the Braves have knocked all but eight of the pitchers, who started against them, out of the box. And they beat three of those, who went the distance.

After Cooper, Coleman will use Bob Logan and then Jim Tobin and Nate Andrews, if the latter is ready, in Sunday's twin bill.



'Happy' Chandler Must Act in Beating of Scheel

By JACK CONWAY

HIGH COMMISSIONER Happy Chandler now has an opportunity to prove whether he intends to rule baseball with an iron hand or act as a $50,000 a year figure head. Chandler must pass judgment on the assault on Karl Scheel, 23-year-old former Marine now acting as a practice pitcher for the Chicago White Sox, by members of the St. Louis Browns.

Manager Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox, who got spiked on the arms while trying to protect Scheel, called the affair "the most brutal display ever witnessed in baseball."

Happy Chandler

Chandler cannot adopt a hush-hush policy as has been done so far by the managements of the White Sox and Browns and by Umpire Passarella. Once baseball's high commissioner has the full facts in the case he must take drastic action or lose standing with the public which has not been very keen for him since some of his early statements after being named as successor to Judge Landis.

There is not any doubt in this writer's mind what Landis would have done under similar circumstances. He would not have tolerated hoodlumism if it were found to exist. The Judge would have run any man out of baseball he felt wanted to convert ball games into barroom brawls.

Irving Vaughn, Chicago Tribune baseball writer, did not mince words in describing how members of the Browns charged the White Sox dugout and attacked Scheel. It is said that the Browns resented some of the statements made by Scheel. Even Chandler will have to admit that a few rough words do not call for a brutal attack.

Baseball is still the national sport. It has a great hold on the American people as was proved again yesterday when 16,469 paid to see Dave Ferriss and the Sox lose to the Yanks.

It is Chandler's job to see that baseball is kept on a plane that will continue to gain respect of the public. The attack on Scheel and the way baseball's case is handled will give a true line on what one may expect from Happy Chandler.

Ferriss' Bad Break

THE TRUE test of any champion is whether he can get up off the floor and win. The Yanks certainly knocked Dave Ferriss to the baseball sod when they belted him out of the box and beat the Sox by a score of 14 to 1.

Ferriss does not need any sports writer to offer an alibi for him. His record of nine wins and two defeats for the season speaks for itself.

Against the Yanks yesterday Ferriss had the type of bad day that sooner or later is experienced by every big league pitching star. For a time in the fifth inning it didn't look as if Ferriss could get a man out.

It might have been charitable for Joe Cronin to have yanked Ferris from the box sooner than he did, but the Sox leader was probably hopeful his ace flinger would settle down and get back to somewhat like normal pitching.

Cronin was also probably anxious to avoid sending Ferriss to the showers.

Fate, however, and the power of the Yanks' batters were against Dave and he was finally removed from the game. He will be back in action by Sunday, and let us hope he has his old pitching magic.

I believe a youngster who has shown as much pitching ability and poise as Ferriss will make out all right. I call your attention to his nine victories, and to the fact that in his previous start to yesterday he was obliged to go 14 innings under the most trying conditions to win.

Ferriss has got so much attention as a result of his pitching ability that he has been under more strain than the average flinger. Perhaps Dave will now find he has less to worry over, and that he will go on to win 20 games for the season.

LOU NOVA, Californian heavyweight, has been training at Johnny Buckley's Gym for his 10-round bout with Tami Mauriello which will be staged by the Goodwin Club at Fenway Park on Monday night. Nova will be in better form than for any of his previous Boston bouts, according to Manager Jimmy Johnston.

Nova and Mauriello will be supported by three other 10-round bouts. Steve Kronis will clash with Tommy Murray, Gus Mell will oppose Lulu Constantino, while Ralph Zanelli will meet Nava Esparza.

The show is being staged for the Christopher Columbus High School and has the endorsement of Archbishop Richard J. Cushing.

Tami Mauriello Here For Nova Go Monday

Heavyweight Tami Mauriello, whose ring record includes a jump from welterweight to heavyweight ranks within a year's time, arrived here today to fulfill his Monday night date at Fenway Park with Lou Nova, California, in one of the 10-round features of the Goodwin A. C. fight show.

These bouts are for the benefit of the Christopher Columbus High School Fund. They have the endorsement of the Rev. Archbishop Richard J. Cushing.

Mauriello will probably jump into early favoritism in his return clash with Nova. In 1942, the New Yorker, then only 22 years old, caught Nova on the down-grade and applied a kayo powder to the Californian in six rounds. But since that time, Nova has started a new comeback spree in an effort to jump into the No. 1 contender's berth when either champion Joe Louis or Billy Conn step out of the Army khaki.

Mauriello is reportedly in top condition. He has been working out in New York, leaving the Hub gymnasiums to Nova.

Other 10-rounders on the card will pit Ralph Zanelli, Providence, R. I., against Nava Esparza, Mexico; Gus "Pell" Mell, Montreal, against Charlie "Lulu" Costantino, New York, and Steve Kronis, South End, against Tommy Moore, South Boston.
